INSTITUTE OF THE AMERICAS, LA JOLLA, CALIFORNIA

CITIZENS AND CRIME

ENGAGING CITIZENS IN COMMUNITY SECURITY

The seminar will examine models in Latin America and elsewhere that involve citizens in the struggle against criminality.

Emphasis will be placed on the need to protect citizens while they engage in anti-crime efforts and models for organizing and maintaining group efforts. Initiatives in Mexico, Colombia, and Chile will be studied.

Initiative leaders will facilitate discussion with participating community organizers involved in development, security and human rights; security professionals; journalists; and public sector advisors on security and community development.
